Universal CEO to Discuss Automation’s Impact on Labor Shortage

[June 7, 2019 - Warren, Michigan] Jeff Rogers, CEO of Universal Logistics Holdings, Inc., a leader in B2B transportation and logistics services, will participate on a panel at the 3PL & Supply Chain Summit in Atlanta, Georgia, on June 11, 2019. The topic of Roger’s panel is, “Will Automation Overcome the Challenge of Labor Shortage?” addressing a growing challenge among shippers and supply chain companies alike.

Rogers will participate on the panel, alongside other logistics leaders, as an expert in supply chain management. Together, the panelists will explore how utilizing automation and collaborative robots can improve efficiency and reduce costs inside the warehouse. Universal currently is using robotics within its warehousing services in order to streamline costs and maximize human resources for its customers, which include Fortune 1000 manufacturers, retailers, and more.

“Universal has been embracing the usage of robotics, or rather co-bots, within supply chain solutions in order to address efficiency, costs, and a growing national labor shortage,” said Rogers. “We’ve proactively created strategic partnerships with automation market leaders in order to leverage new technology and provide our customers with increased value and service. We plan to continue to grow in this space and take advantage of cutting-edge enhancements.”

The 3PL & Supply Chain Summit, hosted by EFT, will take place June 10-12, 2019, at the Westin Peachtree Plaza in Atlanta, Georgia. Roger’s panel is being held on Tuesday, June 11th, at 5:15 p.m. EST. For more information on the event, please visit <https://events.eft.com/3pl/>.
